B.F.O. Grants

Over one million students have applied for the Federal Government's Basic Educational Opportunity Grants so far this year, and it is still not too late to apply.

First or second year students can get between $50 and $1,050 to help with educational expenses. Basic Grants provide eligible students with a "floor" of financial aid which can be used at any one of over 5,000 eligible colleges, junior colleges, vocational or technical schools, career academies, or hospital schools of nursing. It costs nothing to apply for Basic Grants, and they never have to be paid back.

Before applying for a Basic Grant, students must meet three important criteria:

- be enrolled full time at an eligible institution of postsecondary education;
- be a U.S. citizen or permanent resident;
- be enrolled in postsecondary school after April 1, 1973.

Eligibility for Basic Grants is determined by a formula which measures financial need. This formula, applied uniformly to all applicants, takes into account such factors as family income and assets, family size, number of family members in postsecondary school, and social security and veterans' special educational benefits.

To apply for a Basic Grant, students must fill out an "Application for Determination of Basic Grant Eligibility". These applications are available from the school's financial aid officer, or by writing Basic Grants, Box 1842, Washington, D.C. 20028. Even if a student has applied for other financial aid, he or she must fill out a separate application for a Basic Grant. Four to six weeks after submitting an application, you will receive a "Student Eligibility Report" which notifies you of your eligibility. The amount of the grant depends on financial need and the cost of the school which you are attending. The student must take this report to the financial aid officer to find out the amount of the award.

Ask the financial aid officer now about Basic Educational Opportunity Grants. They could provide a foundation to build on.

Sixteen For Debut

Sixteen Georgia College coeds will vie for the Miss Georgia College crown on Saturday, Jan. 18, in Russell Auditorium.

The contestants from Milledgeville are Meredythe Monroe, Ellen Simpson, and Nancy Anderson.

Other contestants and their home towns are Sharon Jones of Augusta, Sheila Sullivan of Wrens, Judith Brown of McDonough, Donna Odum of Campton, Cathy Griggs of Stone Mountain, Rebecca Blauser of Marietta, Cynthia Smith of Conyers, Betsy English of Dublin, Lauren Cecchini of Elberton, Rebecca Houston of St. Simons Island, Ila Selman of Macon, Ann Santa Lucia of Willimantic, Conn. and Monica Manns of Richmond, Va.

The winner will represent Georgia College in the Miss Georgia contest later this year.

Food Day Project In Advance

The U.S. military budget is 60 times greater than the budget for overseas economic aid. During a 14-hour period, the Defense Department spends more than the entire annual budget of the United Nations food program.

Only about 40 percent of Americans eligible for food stamps currently receive them.

The ad budget of General Foods is almost three times bigger than the budget of the Food Bureau of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

The American meat-based diet deprives the world of 18 million tons of cereal protein, an amount almost equal to the world's protein deficiency.

President Ford, during the recent World Food Conference, denied the U.S. delegation permission to increase emergency grain shipments from one million to two million tons to India, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, Pakistan, and ### Rape!

The Baptist Student Union at Georgia College will sponsor a symposium on rape on Monday, Jan. 13 at 5:45 p.m. in Russell Auditorium.

The speaker will be a representative from the Georgia Bureau of Investigation.

The symposium entitled "Lady Beware" will answer questions and offer advice on how to deter rape.

The symposium is free and open to the public.

Fashion Fellowship Offered

Each year up to eight $2200 full-tuition fashion fellowships are awarded by the Tobe-Coburn School of Fashion Careers in New York City to senior men and women graduating from four-year colleges before August 31 and January 1. Now in its thirty-eighth year, this widely-known school of fashion retailing and promotion will make its annual awards this spring.

Each Fellowship covers the full tuition of the One Year Course, which grants an Associate Degree in Occupational Studies (A.O.S.) authorized by the New York State Education Department Board of Regents and an accredited member, National Association of Trade and Technical Schools (NATTS).

Fashion Fellowships are granted to encourage promising college graduates to enter a profession which offers unusual opportunities for advancement to well-trained people. Graduates hold a wide variety of executive positions in merchandising, advertising, fashion coordination, or magazines or newspapers and as owners of their own shops. The School maintains an active lifetime placement service for its graduates.

Tanzania.

Americans consume, on the average, about one hundred pounds of sugar each year. Some foods—sugar-coated cereals, for instance—contain up to 50 percent sugar.

40 million Americans are overweight; almost half die of heart disease.

Soaring food prices, increasing world food shortages, and mounting evidence of the dangerous health effects of the overly processed and refined American diet indicate that, if left to its own devices, the Federal government will not take the steps necessary to develop a responsible food policy. The food industry—the corporations that bring you Cool-Whip and Twinkies—have sold Americans on a diet of sugar-laden, fat-rich "convenience" foods that are contributing to a national epidemic of heart disease, diabetes, hypertension and obesity. While encouraging unhealthy eating habits through advertising and availability, these corporations are also contributing to high food prices. A Federal Trade Commission study estimated that consumers were overcharged $2 billion in 1972, because of the nonpolistic structure of several segments of the food industry.

As government and corporate decision-makers allow the food situation to deteriorate further, it becomes clear that individuals and organizations in communities and campuses across the nation will have to begin a massive education effort—an effort aimed at changing personal eating habits; improving food welfare programs; reforming corporations that promote the sale of billions of dollars worth of nutritionally-empty, resource-wasting junk foods; investigating the energy-and-resource-intensive practices of agribusiness that are forcing small farmers off the land; and developing national policies which recognize the needs of hungry people at home and abroad.

This job requires a national organizing effort. The non-profit Center for Science in the Public Interest, in conjunction with dozens of other groups and individuals, is building a movement to take on this task, a movement that will blossom on FOOD DAY, a national day of action on the food crisis. FOOD DAY is set for April 17, 1975.

We hope that college and university students will take part in FOOD DAY, using their campuses as organizing focal points for both campus- and community-oriented activities. As a first step in accomplishing this, we urge students and faculty to set up joint committees to investigate what can be done at your campus, such as creating a campus-community garden or food coop, initiating sweeping changes in university food-buying policies, or planning massive teach-ins for April 17th.

Students at the Universities of Michigan and Wisconsin are already planning teach-ins for next Spring. At Yale, a student-faculty committee has planned a six-week lecture-discussion series on world food problems and has already organized a fast in which over 2000 students participated.

The food problems which face the nation and the world demand immediate action, and there are dozens of things you can do now. These include:

Write to President Ford and urge him to make additional food aid available to needy nations as soon as possible. Urge your university president or student council to do likewise.

Find out how much fertilizer your university uses to keep its lawns green, and request that such wasteful use of this critically-needed resource be halted.

Request that at least half the selections in vending machines on campus contain wholesome snack foods—fruit, fruit juice, yogurt, unsalted nuts and seeds, etc.—instead of junk foods.

Contact local consumer, environmental, or Public Interest Research Groups (PIRG) to find out what activities can be undertaken in your community.

Initial FOOD DAY actions may not make headlines or immediately change Federal or corporate policies, but they will put decision-makers on notice that the American public is no longer willing to participate in the wasteful use of food resources.

The rise of the environmental movement and the end to direct American involvement in the Vietnam War are directly traceable to campus activity. The students of America can once again make a commitment to actions that can result in long-overdue changes in the way in which the Federal government, corporate America, and individuals decide how and to whom food will be allocated.

FOOD DAY national offices are open at 1785 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Room 206, Washington, D.C. 20036 (202-462-8510). If you are interested in organizing FOOD DAY teach-ins or other activities, contact the office for further information and organizing suggestions.

Mansion News

Due to many requests, both from tourists and from Georgia residents, the Old Governor's Mansion at Milledgeville will be open to the public on a daily basis starting immediately. Hours will be from 1 until 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 2 until 6 p.m. on Sundays.

An admission fee is charged on one dollar for adults and fifty cents for children.

The Mansion, one of Georgia's most celebrated homes, is furnished in the style of the period from 1838 to 1868 and is visited frequently by historians and architectural experts for both pleasure and research purposes. It is considered to be one of the best examples of the Federalist period in the nation's history. It was recently named to the list of National Historic Landmarks by the Secretary of the Interior.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,
Due to the both of us being ex-college men and the both of us trying to keep in contact with the outside world. We are contacting three collegiate news papers in hopes of obtaining correspondence from these students bodies.

As this is the first time either of us has been incarcerated, the loneliness has finally set in. Hence our letters to you.

It would be greatly appreciated if you would please place a small ad in your campus paper, requesting correspondence for the both of us. All the letters that we may receive, will be answered-you can be certain of this.

Below you will find a short profile of each of us. We greatly appreciate the time, effort you have invested in this matter.

Dear Editor,
And I quote from a Georgia College Public Release brief from Dean Gettys:

A new city ordinance allows two hour parking only in the following areas:

Wayne Street, between Green and McIntosh Streets, Wilkinson Street, between Green and McIntosh Streets; Hancock Street, between Jefferson and Liberty Streets.

The City is strictly enforcing this ordinance as well as illegal parking on yellow lines and obstructing driveways. The fines begin at $17.00.

Please be reminded that there is free parking space for you at the corner of Montgomery and Columbia Streets.

The college most thoughtfully provided some more parking space to help ease the traffic problem that has plagued Georgia College. But how can the students use the areas provided if the parking lot itself is blocked by cars parking illegally? I know this subject has come up in a lot in our paper but really, when you can't even get in the dorm for people blocking the drives, the problem has gone far enough. People, please try to help us by at least parking legally.

Sheila Ogletree of Macon, who will serve as an intern in the Georgia legislature beginning in January chats with Dr. Ralph Hemphill, acting chairman of the new department of political science and public administration at Georgia College. Sheila is a senior at GC.

Star Student To Intern

Sheila K. Ogletree of Macon, a senior at Georgia College, has been selected to serve as an intern in the Georgia legislature for the winter quarter beginning in January.

Miss Ogletree, a political science major at the college, is the daughter of Mrs. Gladys F. Jones of 298 Richards Drive in Macon.

Before beginning her internship, she will attend a briefing with state legislators at the Institute of Government in Athens on Dec. 15-17.

Miss Ogletree, who has a 4.0 grade point average at the college, plans to attend law school after graduation from GC in June.

The internship program is in the form of a working agreement with the University System of Georgia and permits the selection of seven interns from 20 institutions outside Atlanta to work in the state capitol. Atlanta area colleges and universities provide 23 interns in the overall program.

According to Dr. Ralph Hemphill, assistant dean at the college and acting chairman of GC's new department of political science and public administration, the selection of Miss Ogletree marks four internships in four years for Georgia College.

For her internship, she will receive 15 hours of credit while serving in Atlanta and be paid for the quarter.

She will write a paper on her experiences at the conclusion of her internship.

Art Students Teach

A new program in the Georgia College art department that gave practical teaching experience to art students has been extremely valuable for all concerned, according to Dr. Arthur J. Owens, director of curriculum for the Baldwin County School System.

Twenty-two art students at the college were involved in the program during the fall semester just ended. The students, under the direction of Dorothy D. Brown, a GC art instructor, spent one day each week teaching art classes at various schools in the county.

The program gave the college students a chance to actually teach art in elementary classrooms and helped at the same time to enrich the lives of their young charges.

During the quarter, the GC students helped the elementary pupils to work on murals, paintings, and collages and to learn to make items of paper and clay including face masks. At Halloween, the specialty was pumpkin carving.

Mrs. Brown called the first-year program very successful "from every point of view."

Dr. Owens noted that the program was especially valuable to the elementary pupils because it gave them a chance to learn from others in the classroom, who were not their regular teachers.

"And it provided them with a host of new ideas," he added.

The program will be continued during the winter and spring quarters.

Milledgeville students who participated in the program were:

Lawrence Brotherton, 360 Frazier Dr.; Nancy Doss, 130 W. Franklin St.; Charlotte McFarlin, 231 N. Wayne St.; Daniel Rogers, 161 N. Richmond St.; Suzanne Shead.

Other students participating were:

Marty Branen, 2910 Toney Dr., Decatur; Judy Brown, Rt. 2, McDonough; Janette Bryant, Wayside; Lauren Cecchini, Rt. 3, Elberton; Pam Chalkley, 522 Ivy Rd., Griffin; Mary Jane Edmunds, Rt. 3, Thomson; Debra Foskey, Swainsboro; Patricia Gail King, 110 Spring Dr., Roswell; Linda Metzler, 3645 Columbus Rd., Macon; Jan McIntosh, 2839 Marlin Way, Chamblee; Alicia Morris, 4851 Springdale Rd., Austell; Sheila Murphy, Roberta; Kay Sheppard, Rt. 2, Gordon; Denise Thomas, 2901 Mimosa Rd., Brunswick; Paulette Winters, 116 Frances St., Warner Robins and Thomas Beacham, Rt. 6, Dublin.

GC Radio

The call letters "EXGC" have been assigned by the Federal Communications Commission to the new 10-watt FM radio station at Georgia College which is expected to start operating during the coming winter quarter.

The station, a student project primarily, will have a broadcast range of five miles.

The new 88.9 megahertz station in Mayfair Hall is currently being equipped for operation. Studio facilities will include a main studio, taping studios for educational programs to be offered by the college, and offices.

Wanted! Wanted! Wanted!

The Atlanta Symphony Youth Orchestra, Michael Palmer, Conductor, has opened auditions for all string players. Those interested should call the Atlanta Symphony Office, 892-3600, for an audition appointment. All other instrument auditions will be held in the Spring.

The 90 members of the current Youth Orchestra range in age from 13 to 21, and represent high schools, junior high schools, and colleges from the Atlanta area. Each member must participate in the music program of his own school.

Sponsored by the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra League's Board of Sponsors, the Youth Symphony gives talented youngsters a chance to work in the atmosphere of a professional orchestra.

GC Vs. Piedmont

Georgia College and Piedmont College will match losing records when they meet Saturday night (Jan. 11) in the Georgia Military College gymnasium.

GC, loser to LaGrange by a 77-70 score Monday night, is 1-7 for the season. Piedmont is 1-8.

Kenny Edwards leads the Piedmont attack, while Robert Williams and Larry Anderson pace the Colonials.

The GC-PC game will begin at 7:30 p.m. The Georgia College women's basketball team will play Tift College in a preliminary game at 5:30 p.m.

Women's Volleyball

Coach Golden reports that she was very pleased with the performance of her volleyball team this year. With many newcomers and some key losses, there was some doubt as to the success of our losses in 1974. However, the team finished

Larry Anderson screens as Robert Williams drives for two points against Paine.

Colonials Rip Ft. Valley, 79-73

Ga. College rebounded from a second period lapse and went on to defeat a taller Ft. Valley team, 79-73 for their first victory of the young season. The Colonials now 1-3, held Ft. Valley's 7-foot center to only 2 points, as Bill Lavery, Doug White, and Larry Anderson dominated the boards while Robert Williams controlled the outside shooting with 31 points. Ga. College bolted ahead 21-19 at the quarter mark, but trailed after a short lapse 46-40 at the half. However, good defense and rebounding brought the Colonials back as they outscored their opponents 39-27 in the second half. Williams and Anderson carried the bunt of the Colonials offense with 31 and 22 points respectively. Their Colonials open at home against Paine College on December 7.

In previous games, Ga. dropped contests to Birmingham Southern, Paine College, and Mercer University. Though being defeated soundly in their opening contest, Ga. College came close to defeating both Paine and especially Mercer. The Colonials dropped an 87-84 decision to Paine in Augusta. Robert Williams and Bill Lavery led the scoring with 27 and 14 points respectively, as the Colonials pulled up time and time again, only to have Paine pull away in the final minutes.

In the Mercer affair in Macon, Williams and Anderson led a charge against the highly favored Bears from Mercer as the two teams were tied up at 29 all. Williams connected 29 points while Anderson collected 22 points in a losing effort.

The fourth period finally saw Mercer widen a four point lead to 20 as Ga. College went down 89-89 quickly when they got into deep foul trouble. The Colonials have done a fine job and could easily be 3-1 at the moment.

Statistically, Ga. College has been receiving some fine offensive scoring from Williams and Anderson, while Lavery and White have been doing some good board work. Robert Williams is averaging 20.3 points per game; Larry Anderson is averaging 14.5 points per game, Bill Lavery is averaging 10.0 points per game, and Doug White 5.3 points per game to lead the Colonials in scoring. Lavery, Anderson, and White, lead the rebounding, respectively.

Final Score: GC-79 Ft. Valley -73

Let's support our team this Dec. 7 at G.M.C.-Ga. Colonials!!

Lady Colonials Open With Impressive Win

Georgia College's Women's Interscholastic Basketball team soundly defeated the Tift College Templars Tuesday night, Nov. 17, in Forsyth. The score was 86 to 47! Coach Laura Golden's Lady Colonials put on a fabulous second half show that left the substantial group of G.C. fans oohing and ahing. Golden's gals (would you rather call them Laura's Lassies?) were tall, talented, tough, and too much!

The game opened slowly and sloppily with three minutes going by before Pinkie Jones hit two free throws to open the scoring for 1974-75. It was nip and tuck throughout the first half. Both sides held four to five point advantages on occasions. G.C. got off more shots but they weren't

Turkey Winners

The winners in the Thanksgiving turkey run, Nov. 25, were: 1st place-Elaine Matthews and William Henry; 2nd place-Bob Watkins and Kathy Watkins; 3rd place-Andy St. John and Pam Varner; 4th place-Scott Staples and Marty Banks. Congratulations are certainly in order for Elaine Matthews and William Henry as they were presented with a huge turkey for Thanksgiving day, courtesy of the H.P.E.R. department at G.C.

connecting. At intermission the score was knotted at 25 a piece.

The second half was a completely different story as the Colonial charge, both offensively and defensively, began to click and the lead mounted. Every member of the squad logged playing time and ten of the thirteen broke into the scoring column. The second half score was 61 to 22 which, coupled with the first half draw, made the game score of 86 to 47.

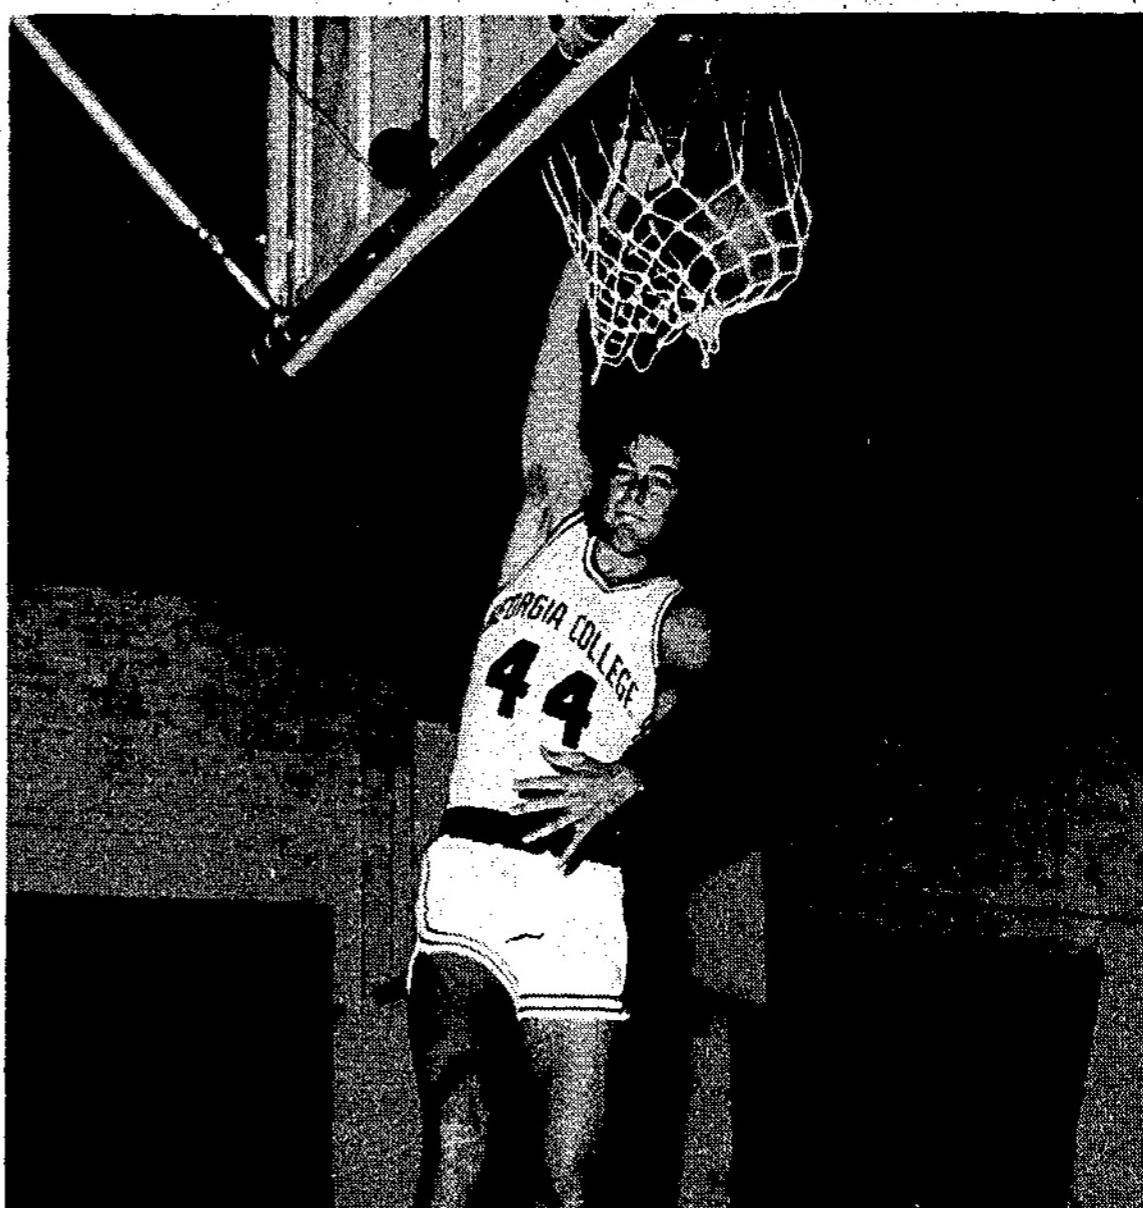

Leading the offensive effort with 15 points was Carolyn Reid whose late game moves and shots were things of beauty. Tall Corinne Irby also began hitting in the second half and ended up with 14 points as did Ginger Penn whose quick sets from 15 feet out clicked marvelously. Marcia McManis tallied twelve and Joanne Tuft eleven, closely followed by Peggy McAfee's nine points. Emily Schandies, Cheryl Bridges, Pinky Jones, and Little Red Floyd also scored. Carrie Benjamin, Connie Massey, and K.K. Horton played but didn't score.

Defensive standouts were Peggy McAfee, Corinne Irby and Cheryl Bridges along with Marcia McManus who pulled in 22 rebounds.

Coach Golden, greatly elated over the inaugural win, had this comment:

"It was a great team effort and I am very proud of all the girls. After they got over the first game jitters, they played some fine basketball."

Colonial Profile

Bill Lavery, 6'6" center, age 20, 225 lb. senior from Macon, Georgia. Lavery is a graduate of Central High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Lavery.
